Federal Prohibition Officers Condon and Briggs broke into activity in and around Montville Thursday morning. Several calls were made and at the home of Stanislas Zomaski, just outside of Montville, a 40 gallon still and a quantity of mash were found. The officers then drove to the home of Peter Zomaski in Montville. When the officers arrived at the house two men were sitting in one of the rooms drinking what proved to be some of their own "makings." This the officers seized. The men tried to argue with the officers and make them leave the house, but finding that this was of no avail one of them ran to the upper story of the house and although in his shirt-sleeves dared the cold outdoor air, leaped to the ground and disappeared into the woods. He was not the man wanted, however, and his daring escape was totally uncalled for. On search of the house a double coil still of 20 gallons was found in operation. A five gallon still, 160 gallons of mash and 3 quarts of finished product were also found.

Zomaski and Lunkonick will appear before United States Commissioner Bari

Mathewson in Norwich this (Friday) morning.

A trip was made to Uxbridge where the officers found 36 bottles of Jamaica ginger in the house and more of Mike Stadnick. Two the officers had some trouble to get at the brew as Mrs. Stadnick seated herself on the pile of bottles and had to be removed by force. Several other calls were made which proved to be unsuccessful.

At a joint meeting of members of the town school board and the selectmen of the town, held recently at the office of the judge of probate, it was decided to have the town board of selectmen prepare for an open competition of architects for plans to be submitted for the addition to the Natchaug school building.

When these plans are in, a special town meeting will be called and the voters will be asked to appropriate a sufficient sum to pay for the new construction work. Bids on the structure will then be called for.

The school housing situation in Windham has steadily advanced as one of the problems the town must face soon. During the past few years schoolhouses that have heretofore been large enough to accommodate all pupils have been found unsuitable to seat the pupils who attend. The school enumeration for the past two years has shown a decided increase in 1921. In some of the local schools large classes have made it imperative that better school housing be furnished. Not a few Windham children are now getting but a half day schooling, while the pupils in larger schools can attend all day.

The situation at Natchaug has been investigated by members of the town school board and in their finding the school problems would be solved for a time at least. The proposed addition will contain eight class rooms thus relieving to a great extent the crowded conditions at the school.

The members of the school committee who met with Selectman James M. Smith and Frank M. Lincoln, were Chairman Dr. F. E. Guild, C. C. Chase, Hornellus Dine, George S. Elliott, H. Clinton Lathrop and Walter R. King.

The faculty of Windham High School were entertained Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Brooks. The programme enjoyed consisted of the following selections on the violin, by Charles T. Baker, accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Brooks: National Favorites, Sousa's overture, Castle Gate, waltz, Estancia, selection, Grand Duchess, Dance of the Sparrows; Reverie, Transcendental, Adoration; Moresca, The Flirt, Flying Colors; Ave Maria, from Cavalleria Rusticana. Besides these numbers there were several violin and piano solos. The programme was enjoyed by those present and a pleasant evening was spent.

Odell M. Chapman's Continental Fife and Drum corps has completed arrangements for the exhibition to be held Saturday night. Invitations have been extended to many out of town corps to attend the meet and compete for prizes. Thursday three corps had notified Mr. Chapman that they would be glad to come. St. Anne's Drum corps of Westbury, the T. A. B. Drum corps of New London, and the Farmington Fife and Drum corps. Notice is expected daily from other corps that have always entered meets in this city.

At 7 o'clock a street parade is to be held, the line of march to be from headquarters on Church street, down Valley to Jackson, down Jackson to Union to Main street and to the town hall. In the meet each corps will march out on the floor, play its selection once through, and march off in regular formation. Nine prizes have been put up for various points of competition.

The Chapman Continental Fife and Drum corps was organized eight months ago and since that time has grown steadily, having won several prizes in competitive meets in other cities and has arranged several successful events. The corps has looked the Frank J. Murphy Show for dates in May and is to hold its second annual field day in this city on Saturday, June 3.

The following item of local interest appeared in a recent issue of a Waterbury paper:

"Another step in Catholic social service work of the city has been taken with the appointment of a local director for the Diocese Bureau of Social Service. This was done at the meeting last evening of the committee of the local branch, at which Rev. M. J. Judge, state director, was present, and the choice fell upon Rev. Eugene P. Cryne. Father Cryne is one of the most popular clergymen of the city and has had more than the ordinary clergyman's experience in work of the kind, having long been director of St. Vincent de Paul's society, being chaplain of St. Mary's Hospital Aid society, vice chairman of the municipal Board of Charities and superintendent of Catholic cemeteries.

"The social service work of the diocese, though in a pioneer stage, has already been found most useful and successful. The men's department of the state bureau has not been formed, but a meeting is being arranged of representatives of the state to take place in Hartford, March 26, in St. Peter's School hall, to form an organization. There are already 28 women's organizations formed throughout the state."

Father Cryne is a native of Willimantic and friends in the city are pleased to learn of his new honors.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Excellent Show At The Strand.

Playing to capacity houses yesterday the Norwich theatregoers were given a real big treat with some real excellent vaudeville offerings, the like of which has never been seen in Norwich before.

The big feature attraction is The Jean Leighton Revue. If you ever have liked a minstrel act, you'll surely like this one. Yet it is not to be compared to other minstrel acts you have seen in Norwich before. This is in a class by itself. Excellent singing and comedy make this a hundred per cent. production. You'll like it. The Revue consists of six real artists.

The Hope Sisters are the theatre's good fortune. They are very graceful dancers and for those that like symmetrical dances, a treat is in store for them here. They also show many very fine wardrobe.

This and Lee are melodious synopses. They sing up to the minute songs in a different way. If you hear them once, you'll want to hear them again.

Jack Mackay is a just comedian. His wit and his is a perpetual cat-and-mouse game. He may not be food for thought, but he is certainly a source of merriment. Here is a comedian who has been seen in Norwich, and you are sure to like him and get plenty of laughs.

Sterley and Sherwood offer a very funny comedy skit. Here again you'll have plenty of laughter. You'll laugh if you feel in that mood or not.

Herbert Rawlinson will be seen on the screen Thursday in "The Millionaire," a Universal special attraction. It was directed by Jack Conway from a story by Hubert Footner. Rawlinson has heretofore appeared principally in roles supporting the best known stars of the screen and has achieved a reputation for his versatile acting.

Everyone who has seen the Kelli Vaudeville at the Strand and recalled other vaudeville can easily detect the difference. What is it? A name? A style? Both vaudeville in the world's best and the Norwich theatregoers have been getting the world's best vaudeville at the Strand. Here is a sample.

Davis Theatre.

Without question one of the best short shooting acts that has ever appeared on a local stage is now displaying its remarkable marksmanship at this popular theatre. Both members of this team are really expert with rifle and revolver. The contradictory audience can plainly see that the slightest tremor of either of them means the loss of a finger to one of them. "Four Peaches and a Pippin" is apparently the right title for the shooting act. Four very pretty misses and a diminutive comedian compose this act and the offering is a combination of sweet singing and dainty dancing with a faint suggestion of a plot running through it. It is richly costumed and is framed in a most sumptuous set of scenic scenery. Joe Brennan, "The Beau Brummell of Broadway," is seen as a tramp comedian whose work is decidedly original. McDonald and Adams offer a rapid fire conversational act interspersed with some excellent saxophone selections.

Persons who have seen "The Love Charm," in which Wanda Hawley is appearing in the feature picture, assert that Miss Hawley stages the jazziest jazz party ever seen in this town.

Her heart isn't in her work, but she's trying to allenate the sentiment of the music. She's a very pretty miss and a diminutive comedian compose this act and the offering is a combination of sweet singing and dainty dancing with a faint suggestion of a plot running through it. It is richly costumed and is framed in a most sumptuous set of scenic scenery. Joe Brennan, "The Beau Brummell of Broadway," is seen as a tramp comedian whose work is decidedly original. McDonald and Adams offer a rapid fire conversational act interspersed with some excellent saxophone selections.

A comedy and News Weekly conclude the bill.

Breed Theatre.

The Invisible Power, a Goldwyn picture by Charles Kenyon and directed by Frank Lloyd, is the feature playing at the Breed theatre today and Saturday. It is an engaging story of the underworld, of real dramatic power. The story is a masterpiece of the "submerged tenth," the story deals entirely with the efforts of a reformed convict to lead an honest life. The fact that he has once been in jail, makes him a marked man for the secret police, and his attempts at reform meet with strange handicaps.

House Peters is seen for the first time as a Goldwyn leading man, and his splendid performance is the role of a regenerated convict. Irene Rich, as his wife, gives a poignantly sincere portrayal of the young mother whose self-sacrifice at last leads to her husband's being freed of the police index for criminals.

Other pictures on the bill include Ann Little in "The Blue Fox," the Pathe News and an Educational comedy. Continuous show Saturday starting at 1:30.

Tonight at the Armory.
